The Omen is a biweekly publication that is the world's only example of the consistent application of a straightforward policy: we publish all signed submissions from members of the Hampshire community that are not libelous. Send us your impassioned yet poorly-thought-out rants, self-insertion fan fiction, MS Paint comics, and whiny emo poetry: we'll publish it all, and we're happy to do it. The Omen is about giving you a voice, no matter how little you deserve it. Since its founding in December of 1992 by Stephanie Cole, the Omen has hardly ever missed an issue, making it Hampshire's longest-running publication.

Your Omen submission (you're submitting right now, right?) might not be edited, and we can't promise any spellchecking either, so any horrendous mistakes are your fault, not ours. We do promise not to insert comical spelling mistakes in submissions to make you look foolish.

Your submission must include your real name: an open forum comes with a responsibility to take ownership of your views. (Note: Views expressed in the Omen do not necessarily reflect the views of the Omen editor, the Omen staff, or anyone, anywhere, living or dead.)

The Omen staff consists of whoever shows up for Omen layout, which usually takes place on alternate Thursday nights in the basement of Merrill on a computer with an honestly pretty adequate monitor, nowadays. You should come. We don't bite. You can find the Omen on other Thursdays in the Dining Commons, the post office, or on the door of your mod (if we get to putting it on doors, anyway).

An Open Question Benjamin Batchelder

Dearest Readers of the Omen:

What are your universal truths? What are the rules by which you operate on a day-to-day basis? How do you maintain stability (or create discord) in the world around you?

Feel free to submit your answers to omen@hampshire.edu

Divest from books

Evan Silberman

Hampshire's library is a bit of a joke. Specifically, it is tiny. The books on the stacks generally seem to be a sort of random assortment of things that have been acquired over the years, stronger in some Hampshire-friendly areas (theory and crit, comics) and amusingly weak in others (science). Altogether though, browsing the stacks for useful books is a pretty hopeless activity; everyone gets their stuff via Five College requests.

Hampshire could put itself on the forefront of the decline of western civilization by shipping all the circulating books in its collection (except the comics) to the book depository and devoting all that precious space to cooler uses, like more space for collaborative work, creative endeavors, computer stuff, performance space, whatever. And I am reasonably sure that nobody would miss the books.

post-scriptit's never too late for love

Hey Omenites -

You may have noticed we have TWO issues this week- and that we're a little late. That's because you sent SO MANY valentines, and have SO MUCH love, we couldn't get them all printed in one issue. We've made sure both issues are packed to the brim with different valentines, so please pick up one of each issue- or share your issue with a friend, new or old, who has the other half.

Love, Fiona and the Omen
